This Catalog contains programs of interest to professional and direct support staff in the private (for profit and not-for profit) and public sectors. We take pride in our ability to utilize the talents of our presenters, all with demonstrated expertise in the training content. We recognize the current economic climate we are in and the fiscal issues our field is facing and have made every attempt to keep registration fees as low as possible. We do not expect to have the ability to offer scholarships at this time.

We encourage you to register for programs that you feel will benefit you personally or that will enhance your job performance and competency. Although the listings in this catalog are applicable towards initial certification or renewal of CCB credentials, we cannot guarantee acceptance by any other credentialing body. Each participant will be required to complete an online survey following completion of the day's activities in order to receive a certificate of the applicable CEUs. Surveys will be sent to participants electronically no later than 2 business days after the training date. The CCB, nor the presenters, are responsible for ensuring that participants sign in and out on the attendance sheet, nor for the accuracy of the email addresses provided by participants. You must attend the full training to receive CEUs as partial CEUs will not be given.

We welcome your questions or comments on this catalog, including suggestions for future training events. You may direct them to:

info@ctcertboard.org

Finally, the staff and Board of Directors of the CCB would like to thank the Programs and Services Committee (Jay Cummings, Chair) for their efforts in selecting the trainings contained herein, the New England Addiction Technology Transfer Center at Brown University, the Connecticut Department of Mental Health and Addiction Services, notably the Education and Training Division for their support and the Commissioner's Office for their financial support.

Gambling can be a recreational activity or a “hidden” co-occurring disorder for people in recovery, high risk groups and the general population. With the inclusion of Disordered Gambling in the addictions category of the DSM-V, it’s important for health care professionals to recognize and learn what resources are available for people experiencing gambling problems.

THE CONNECTICUT CERTIFICATION BOARD PRESENTS:

PTSD—Moral Injury-Combat Trauma: A Perpetrator's Perspective

Jose E. Crego LCSW, LADC

Jose Crego is a clinician who is currently employed full time as a social worker for the Veteran's Administration and maintains a private practice in Waterbury, Connecticut. His specialties include addiction, trauma and Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder. Jose is a frequent presenter at the Drug and Alcohol Recovery Counselor (DARC) program at Naugatuck Valley Community College and serves as adjunct faculty at Marist College in Poughkeepsie, New York.

NOVEMBER 17, 2015
9:00 A.M. - 4:30 P.M.

Combat veterans often have significant trauma related issues and Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder, the chronology of these being different than those from the victim's perspective. Participants in this training will also be introduced to the concept of moral injury from the view of the perpetrator and will discuss how the two co-exist. Identification and discussion of symptomatology and treatment recommendations are also part of the day's agenda.

Seating is very limited. Completion of the day's event will earn you 6 CCB-approved training hours, applicable for both initial certification and renewal. For registration information, please email Info@ctcertboard.org.

THE CONNECTICUT CERTIFICATION BOARD PRESENTS:

Engaging the Co-Occurring Client Using the Grinch, Pinocchio and Rudolph, Too!

Thomas Greaney, LADC, CCDP, SAP

In 15-years as a clinician, Tom has developed an expertise in using creative approaches to individual and group therapy to engage clients, retain them in treatment and help counselors stave off burnout. He sees his creative treatment topics to be particularly beneficial to clients with the dual diagnosis of both a substance use and mental health disorder. Greaney believes using compelling visual and audio materials and hands on activities makes key facets of recovery more memorable and applicable to the lives of recovering persons. He is the sole-proprietor of New London, Conn. based Savvy Communications, a private practice outpatient treatment company. Greaney earned his Master's of Education Degree in Rehabilitation Counseling in 1999 from Springfield College in Mass. He obtained a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Communication Studies in 1979 from the State University of New York College at Oswego.

NOVEMBER 20, 2015
9:00 A.M. - 4:30 P.M.

Neuroscience tells us that an individual's brain processes visual information 60,000 times faster than text and that about 65 percent of the US population are visual learners (The Visual Teaching Alliance). Engaging and retaining clients, while averting counselor burnout, is key to the recovery and treatment process.

Participants in this training will, in essence, take part in abbreviated versions of the creative groups Tom has developed during 15 years as a clinician, mentor to young men in a Connecticut preparatory school and through his affinity for Pinocchio and the downtrodden Grinch. Attendees of this dynamic, experiential seminar will learn valuable skills and tap into their own wellspring of creativity to inspire clients and refresh their own careers.

Seating is very limited. Completion of the day's event will earn you 6 CCB-approved training hours, applicable for both initial certification and renewal. NASW-CT approval pending. For registration information, please email info@ctcertboard.org.

Denise Keane, LCSW, LPC, CCDP-D, MATS
Denise Keane is the Associate Director of Perception Programs, Inc., a private, not-for-profit behavioral agency dedicated to the well being of individuals and families in northeastern Connecticut. In addition to her position at PPI, she has served as adjunct faculty in the Social Work department at Eastern Connecticut State University for the last 7 years. Denise has also presented to the DMHAS Co-Occurring Collaborative, the Social Work Doctoral department at the University of Connecticut and the NACSW Annual Conference.

This presentation explains the neuroscience foundation of interpersonal connections, links this information to the therapeutic alliance, and then demonstrates the practical applications of appropriate self disclosure that enhances the alliance. Guidelines, such as when and how much to disclose, as well as processing the disclosure will be provided.

Seating is very limited. Completion of the morning's event will earn you 3 CCB-approved training hours, applicable for both initial certification and renewal. For registration information, please email
